Global Compliance Services Announces Dennis Muse as Chief Executive Officer

Charlotte, NC – May 10, 2004 – Global Compliance Services, formerly Pinkerton Compliance Services, the leading provider of corporate ethics and compliance programs and hotlines worldwide announced that effective immediately, Dennis Muse has joined the Company as Chief Executive Officer. The addition of Dennis to the organization underscores a continued commitment to building the most respected and trusted company providing outsourced compliance assurance, reporting and management services.

As Global Compliance Services continues to grow, Dennis will be an integral part of the efforts to strengthen the company's position as the leading provider of innovative compliance solutions. Cliff Thomas will remain as President of Global Compliance Services and will assist Dennis and other members of the management team with supporting both customers and product development initiatives.

Dennis has over 25 years of diversified experience in a number of service and technology industries. He is a seasoned and respected professional who has served as CEO of two private equity sponsored companies, and has been the President of billion dollar divisions of large multi-national companies. Dennis brings the experience and know-how to help Global Compliance Services deliver exceptional services while guiding and driving the development of new and innovative products and services to support the needs of our customers in a complex and dynamic corporate compliance environment.

"We are excited about the impact Dennis' contributions will make to the successful delivery of our products and services to our customers," said Cliff Thomas, President of Global Compliance Services. "Dennis adds further depth to our management team as we seek to expand our role as the leader in the compliance space."
